Young Money Magazine

George Jenkins High School has agreed to implement a class on financial education into their regular curriculum beginning this next year. InCharge will generously provide 2400 copies of Young Money Magazine, one for each student at the school. Students from one of the marketing classes were asked to think of ways for not only introducing the magazines, but providing some incentive to actually read it. One of the creative ideas that the students came up with was that announcements be made on ENN, that magazines will be provided to every student during their homerooms. The announcements will be made two days prior to distribution will have two interviews with students who have read the magazine and really liked it. The day of the distribution, the principal will make a morning announcement about the magazine. Students will deliver the magazines to homeroom teachers the morning prior to distribution. There will be an essay contest related to the magazine - the winner will receive movie passes to the new theater. The contest will be announced on the ENN story and an insert will be put in each magazine detailing the contest. English classes will be encouraged to use this opportunity for a reading/writing assignment.

540 Interactive, Inc.

540 Interactive, Inc. has been in business for 6 years helping businesses grow by using innovative technology, methodology and support functionality to harness the true opportunity of the Internet. We offer a full suite of e-business solutions from Web site design to online/traditional marketing strategies. Our goal is to establish working relationships that assist our customers in building brand awareness and an improved bottom line for today and the future.

We are a proud member and community partner of Florida Jump$tart and pleased to provide enhancements and customizations to their www.fljumpstart.org website. With funding provided by InCharge of America, a Florida Jump$tart board member, 540 has customized the backend functionality allowing for more targeted reporting and analysis of Web site visitors. In addition, we added Young Money Interactive called "Grab Todd's Cash" to the Florida Jump$tart's Web site to reward young visitors for their interest in financial literacy. I look forward to continuing to work with Rosanna Jacobsen and Al Duarte enhancing the Web site even further. Paul Joachim, President www.540.com

Access Miami

Do you ever wonder what is happening in the world of community development within the City of Miami? Have you heard of a new program called ACCESS Miami, but you're not quite sure what it is? If so, the City of Miami, Department of Community Development is once again publishing its departmental newsletter, Homeward Bound. Homeward Bound highlights our programs, our residents, the hard work of City staff and events that are impacting lives. From ACCESS Miami to Mayor Diaz's involvement with the Florida Jump$tart program, Homeward Bound is our way of keeping you informed about what we are doing in the Department of Community Development. We hope that you find it both interesting and informative.

HSC's 10th Anniversary Celebration - Wednesday, January 25 @ 6pm

The Human Services Coalition (HSC) has rescheduled its 10th Anniversary Celebration and Truth & Hope Awards at Bank of America's Sky Terrace in downtown Miami (100 SE 2nd St). For 10 years, HSC has empowered individuals and communities to create a just society by promoting civic engagement, economic fairness and access to health and human services. HSC members, local leaders and nonprofit partners and organizations will celebrate 10 years of HSC's work and honor local leaders for their commitment to the community. Daniella Levine, Executive Director, HSC and Modesto Abety, CEO, The Children's Trust, will host the Truth & Hope Awards, in addition to several special guests.

Get Checking is designed for people who either have never had an account and don't know how to start, had past problems, or in danger of having their account closed. Get Checking offers the opportunity to open an account with a participating financial institution after completing an education seminar given by one of our Community Outreach Coordinators. The seminar covers topics like balancing checkbooks, low cost checking options, avoiding costly fees, and how the account relationship can help establish credit and access to other services. For more information, contact Richard Clements at 561-504-4236.

Pinellas Education Foundation

This year $400,000 will be awarded to schools and teachers, with $150,000 allocated specifically to the Foundation's Teach for Excellence Classroom Grant Program, which gives instructional personnel the resources to develop creative classroom projects funded by the Tampa Bay community.

We are pleased to inform you that we have launched a new initiative to raise funds and awareness for the Teach for Excellence program called Honor Thy Teacher, whereby parents and individuals in the community can give a monetary gift to the Foundation in honor of a specific teacher. Funds raised will benefit the grants program. Information on Honor Thy Teacher is available online now at www.pinellaseducation.org.
