

Cash Ashley Emotions Meet Money

Cash Ashley is an Emotional Intelligence speaker, leadership facilitator, and sales professional who brings a powerful practitioner's perspective on relationship-driven performance in technology-enabled environments.

Over the past five years, Cash has delivered customized Emotional Intelligence sessions for a wide range of organizations across industries, including financial services, insurance, healthcare, technology, government, and education. His experience includes speaking at the Federation of Tax Administrators Annual Conference (twice), sales kickoffs for ReluTech, and engagements with organizations such as Wells Fargo, Progressive Insurance, GSK, Holcim, Splunk, Travelers, McDonald's Leadership (CEO present), IPG Mediabrands (CEO present), Dentsu Canada, Publicis Toronto, Cornerstone, and the Birmingham Housing Authority.

In higher education and leadership development, Cash has worked with Georgetown University's McDonough School of Business, Howard University, and the University of Arkansas, helping students and professionals translate Emotional Intelligence into real-world leadership and career success.