

Dr. Serena King Teen Gambling and Financial Literacy

Dr. Serena King is Professor of Psychology at Hamline University in Saint Paul, Minnesota (PhD, Clinical Psychology, University of Minnesota). She is an internationally recognized expert in gaming and gambling, a licensed psychologist, and holds an International Gaming Disorder Certificate (IGDC). Dr. King's recent work focuses on gambling and gaming disorders in childhood to adolescence. She co-chairs an international scientific committee on reducing gambling harm worldwide. Her recent articles on youth gambling and gaming were published in JAMA Pediatrics and The Journal of Child Psychology and Psychiatry. Dr. King has conducted several large-scale community studies on gambling and substance use and engages in program development for schools, clinics, and families. She also trains educational and health care professionals. She advises on prevention, intervention, and educational models for mental health, gambling and addiction in youth and families.